SUMMARY

I am a full stack engineer with experience developing client-side and server-side web app with React, Redux, Node.js, SQL, from creating UI/UX design to deployment. My background as a project manager for a SaaS has provided me with exceptional communication skills and a problem-solving attitude required to work with cross-functional teams. I am a quick and well-organized self-learner and I have a big-picture perspective on projects, understanding both the technical details and the strategic goals. I'm passionate about programming and eager to contribute my skills to your company's success.
